Church-planting missionaries to Italy

July 2009

Dear praying friends and supporters,

God has richly blessed our family with a beautiful new baby girl. Arianna was born on June 16th. Both mom and baby are doing great. It has been interesting adjusting to three children all under the age of four. Although this has been a wonderful time, we are eager to get back on the road soon and exhort the body of Christ about the importance of church planting in Italy.

Recently, the G8 Summit was held in L'Aquila Italy, the site of the horrible earthquake that took hundreds of lives this year. Although a variety of topics were discussed, the main point of the Summit was to discuss Global Warming and implementing new techniques in preventing it. There, where hundreds of people lost their lives and slipped into eternity, the leaders of the world were discussing climate change! I cannot help but think that what the world and Italy really need is for people to seriously discuss and implement Global Evangelization.

This month we covet your prayers for:

- Final support would come in so we can move to Italy within the next year.
- God to fill our schedule with churches interested in seeing churches planted in Italy
- Family would adjust well to now traveling with three little girls.

Constrained by His love,

Michael & Erika Barone
